

2010 NEBRASKA GRAIN & FEED ASSOCIATION ELEVATOR, MILL & PROCESSOR'S SAFETY DAY

March 30, 2010

Doug Salmon, Compliance Advisory Services, Nebraska State Fire Marshals
Office & Omaha OSHA Office
Ramada Inn Convention Center, Kearney, NE

The Nebraska Grain and Feed Association (NGF) has scheduled the 2010 Nebraska Grain & Feed Association (NGF) Elevator, Mill & Processor Safety Day for Tuesday, March 30, 2010 at the Ramada Inn, Kearney, NE. Each year, grain storage, milling and processing facilities are damaged or destroyed by fire or experience other safety and health related situations. Fortunately, through aggressive safety efforts in the industry, the incidents of fire and explosion have dramatically decreased, but the incidents of bin related accidents have increased. The classroom workshop is designed to train personnel on the ways and means of preventing and controlling a fire and explosion at grain elevators, feed mills and grain processing plants. In addition, attendees will learn about OSHA Emphasis Program on Grain Elevators and the hazards associated with grain storage bins and the right approach to rescuing a person from an entrapment situation. We want to encourage member elevators and feed mills to share the attached registration information with your local fire department and consider sending a few of your local volunteer firefighters to the workshop. We would further suggest assisting with their registration cost. It is certainly in your best interests to have fire department personnel that are familiar with responding to an elevator or fire emergency! The workshop will be taught by safety professionals, State Fire Marshal inspectors and trainers and OSHA representatives who have special knowledge, skills and expertise in preventing and fighting a grain elevator or processors fire or responding to a grain bin entrapment.
